Task Force on Integrative Research Services:
Phase 2 in development of the scholarly commons

The charge to the group is to build on the principles articulated in the report of the Scholarly Commons Task Force, to think broadly and creatively about the future of research activities on this campus, and to articulate how the Library can serve as a host and service provider for scholarly endeavors. The Task Force will be asked to seek broad external input from faculty, researchers and students on campus. I would expect a progress report in January, with a final report by the end of spring semester, 2007.
