Performance tips:
Playing a hoedown is a little different from playing your regular solos or orchestra music. You don’t have to play exactly what’s on the page, you just have to stay in the right key and keep the right number of beats.

The melody is a framework; you can personalize it and make your own version by changing the rhythm, adding slurs or double stops, or filling in spaces in the music.

This tune sounds great with open D-string drones in measures 13-17 and 21 to the end. Visit www.Bow-DaciousStringBand.com for more tips.

©2005 Robin Kearton