Mortenson Center Associates Program Scholarship: Description and Application Guidelines

Funding for Program Participation

The Mortenson Center for International Library Programs is delighted to provide funding to support individuals to attend the 2026 Associates Program to advance their leadership and professional development goals. The scholarships support 2026 Associates, who would otherwise be unable to participate due to financial constraints. Each scholarship covers the $4,000 program fee. The recipient will be responsible for paying all other associated costs (e.g., airfare, visa fees, meals and other personal costs). Scholarship applications are welcomed from library and information science (LIS) professionals who are residents of under-represented countries, from low- and middle-income countries, and/or members of historically underrepresented and marginalized communities from countries outside of the United States.

To determine your eligibility, please review the specific requirements outlined below and complete the scholarship application form. All sections of the application form should be completed and submitted to mortenson@illinois.edu by the deadline of 21 November 2025.

Eligibility Criteria

1. Admission to the 2026 Mortenson Center Associates Program.
2. Demonstrated financial need.
3. Ability to pay all other associated costs (airfare, visa fees, meals and other personal costs).
4. Commitment to learning, applying and sharing new knowledge and skills to enhance their institutions, the LIS field, and/or professional practice.
5. Demonstrated and/or potential leadership and innovation in their workplace and/or the LIS field in their local context.
6. Professional readiness, work ethic and promise based on 2 reference letters - one submitted with the Program application, and a second one for the grant application from a different recommender (supervisor/dean/director/professional mentor).
